What's my account number all about?

As a member of a credit union you receive one short member number that is convenient to remember such as 123456. Additionally, each individual account type receives a unique account number:

Account Name	Account Type	Routing Number	Account Number (14 digits)
Savings	Savings	263181384	10000001234561
Sharedraft Check	Checking	263181384	14500001234563
IRA Savings	Savings	263181384	12500001234564
Money Market	Savings	263181384	18000001234568
Car Loan	Loan	263181384	27000001234567
Vacation Loan	Loan	263181384	22900001234568

Nicknames can be assigned to each of your accounts in digital banking or in-person to help make them easier to identify.

When setting up direct deposit and transfers to other financial institutions you will need some specific account information.

- Addition Financial ABA/routing and transit number: 263181384
- Your Addition Financial 14-digit unique checking account number / MICR number (example would be 14500001234563)

Your personal account numbers can be located:

- Welcome letter with account cards received at account opening
- Digital banking » Select Account » Details
- Bottom of your checks

Credit cards are identified with the last 4 digits of your card number.
