

Child Privacy

The personal information of a child received online under the age of thirteen is not collected, stored, or disclosed by Addition Financial in order to comply with the Children's Online Privacy Protection Act. This personal information includes name, address, e-mail address, telephone number, social security number, specific identifier, or any combination of various identifying elements.

If a child under the age of thirteen elects to send an e-mail or other electronic request to Addition Financial, the credit union may respond to that e-mail or request. However, the e-mail address of the child will be deleted and no personal information will be collected, stored or disclosed.